

EUMASLI II – a new cohort

Starts September 2013

Applications now open

Deadline: 26 April 2013

Further information:
www.eumasli.eu

humak

“EUMASLI has broadened my professional and personal horizon and has brought me a whole bunch of new friends all over Europe. I have found my scientific interest again and am involved in new research projects. Growth, perspectives, reflection and so much more - it is a hard time, especially when you do it while working to earn the money you need to pay the many trips - but I would do it again and again and again - a door you should not leave closed - go for it!” Patricia Brück, Austria

“Without EUMASLI I wouldn't be doing my current PhD. It helped me re-clarify what interests me about sign languages and deaf communities. The coming together of such a culturally and linguistically diverse group of fellow students provided an environment so rich it couldn't not cultivate growth.” Kyra Pollitt, UK

“Who would have thought that theory and academic reading can be SO intriguingly interesting? And, actually, relate to practically everything you do as a sign language interpreter? And leave you with a permanent reflective attitude so that when you fail, you recover and decide that next time you'll at least fail better?! This is what studying with an unbelievably amazing EUMASLI group can do to you. My advice is: think twice. And then don't miss it.” Kati Lakner, Finland

